

2010 ANNUAL REPORT

THE MISSOURI FILM COMMISSION

2010: THE YEAR IN REVIEW

Bill Lennon
Chair, Missouri Film Commission

2010 was of opportunity and challenges for the Missouri Film Commission. The opportunity was born in the very public success of two Missouri productions of the previous year, "Up in the Air" and Sundance Grand Prize winning "Winter's Bones." The challenges arose in the current anti-tax credit fervor that has gripped our legislators.

In these economically trying times, close scrutiny of these programs is necessary. The challenge for our Commission is to plainly show the value of the film tax credit.

The goals of our Commission are to attract business here and to build an in-state industry. The two productions mentioned above pumped over $12,000,000 into our economy. More importantly, they employed over 130 Missourians; truck drivers, electricians, caterers, actors and technical personnel. There are over forty different occupations that can be impacted by a single production.

The motion-media industry, which includes video, film, television, graphics, game design and the new forms of social media, is one of the growing industries of the 21st century. Every youngster with a cell phone is not making videos. Do we want the youth of Missouri to have to leave our State in order to find work in this field?

This not about Hollywood and celebrities; this is about jobs and building an industry here in Missouri. The film tax credits, less than one percent of the total tax credits in our State, we are the tools with which we build this industry.

HISTORICAL BACKGROUND OF THE COMMISSION

The Missouri Film Commission was created in 1983 to attract film, television, video and cable productions to Missouri, and to promote the growth of the film and video production industry within Missouri. The mission of the Missouri Film Commission is to encourage capital investment to develop a viable infrastructure, including an experienced professional workforce, for motion media production in Missouri. The ultimate goal of the Commission is to achieve a self-sustaining production industry that will increase employment opportunities, entrepreneurial opportunities and generate additional revenue in the state.

COMMISSION PRIMARY RESPONSIBILITIES:

RSMo 620.1200 states two main responsibilities for the board:

- 1) Advise the Director of the Department of Economic Development on the promotion of the development of film production and facilities in Missouri.
- 2) Provide an evaluation report to the governor and the general assembly, including any recommendations on the removal of barriers so that film production in Missouri may be more easily promoted and the development of state incentives to attract private investment in film production in the state.

THE MISSOURI FILM OFFICE

The Missouri Film Office supports the objectives of the Commission by marketing the state to filmmakers across the country (and internationally) while providing a full range of support services designed to attract individual film projects to the state. The Missouri Film Office is backed by a strong and eager network of local contacts that help meet daily production needs throughout the state.

The Missouri Film Office provides the following services:

1. Scouting

The Film Office researches and documents any type of location background and supplies photographs or videotape shot to your specifications. We accompany you to the suggested locations and arrange for any necessary clearances.

2. Pre-Production

The Film Office provides detailed information on state and local film regulations, weather, production services, crew, talent, facilities, equipment and various support services such as hotels, caterers, transportation, etc.

3. Liaison

The Film Office works closely with the various federal, state and local officials, as well as institutions, private businesses and individuals to ensure your shoot is hassle-free.

4. Recommendations

The Film Office analyzes the economic impact that each film applying for production tax credits may have in Missouri and makes recommendations to the Department of Economic Development about which projects should receive tax credits.

Film Production Tax Credit Program

The Missouri Department of Economic Development (DED) film production tax credit program is capped at $4.5 million per year. The Department may issue a production company state income tax credits equaling up to 35% of the company's certified Missouri expenditures required to make a motion media production, and (by policy) 30% for qualifying out-of-state cast and crew expenditures.

By statute, a production must spend a minimum of $100,000 for projects over 30 minutes in length, or $50,000 for films 30 minutes and under (i.e., payments made to Missouri companies, organizations or individuals) to earn a tax credit. Only those Missouri expenditures that are necessary for the production are applicable. Such expenditures may include, but are not limited to, the costs for labor, services, materials, equipment rental, lodging, food, location fees and property rental.

The tax credits may be applied against state income taxes (excluding withholding taxes) or financial institution taxes. The credits can be applied by the original recipient against such tax liability, or they may be sold or transferred to another taxpayer and applied by the transferee against their tax liability. The credits may be used for the tax period during which they are earned, and can be carried forward for up to five additional tax periods.
